
QUICK! Say something completely RANDOM!

Posted by theoneandonly - 2006/06/29 05:22

Hey Mates!

This is a spot to say something completely and uddery random, something so random that you'll question your own sanity:p SO! What are you waiting for!hehehe

Well the woodchuck isn;t actually chucking the wood, I'm just wondering how much wood the woodchuck could chuck if it could ;)

Hope that clarified :P

JJ MCR you should totally try sliding your arms into some pillows infromna your dog then running around in circles and flapping them,

It'll FLIP OUT.

Don't yell though lest it thinks you're yelling at it.

Well never mind, that died like 7 year ago.

Pulls out lightsabre

Time to die Derrick!

Has a lightsabre battle with Derrick

Die whore!

UGH, Shitbags

random clashing noises

Become locked together

Does movie straining face

Gets knocked back, but does a triple flip and lands up some stairs

Ever seen 5 years worth of gymnastics training in action? Crackwhore?

lmao, that sounds like something me and one of my friends from school came up with:
stupid people should be ground up into a nutritious mush and fed to the average person (who are now slaves) in order to create a utopian society dominated by the intelligencia

Life is a series of neverending, primarily insignificant problems based on ideals of which are mostly irrelevant, blasphemous and ignorant opinions that are passionately motivated by MOSTLY IRRELEVANT, BLASPHEMOUS AND IGNORANT people which unknowingly nurture the unnaturally thick roots of prejudice which has caused nearly ALL the evil of this world.

Boku wrote:

If someone tells you to say something random, and you say something random ... is that truly random? Technically speaking, no, it is not random, because something random is something which is completely unexpected, however in this case, unexpected things are expected so it can't be unexpected even though it is unexpected because you don't know what to expect in people's posts but then again you do know what to expect because you expect that you won't expect what will be in their posts, however that is going on the assumption that the definition of random will just mean random on the content of the post however a lot of posts in this thread are discussing unexpected random posts. And then you have to get into quantum physics to determine whether anything can be truly "random" because in my opinion nothing is random, so basically there is no such thing as a "random" event but in the case of this thread the author vaguely means to say "post something stupid" which isn't necessarily random because I expect stupid things, however even though I don't know what will happen, I still expect a stupid post regardless.

The truth is you cant see what is in that box so it cant exist, and if it doesnt exist when you close it in the box will it still be there if you open it and if it is still in the box, is it there because you think it is or does it truly exist at all, does anything exist by itself or is everything there because you think it is there?

If there is a witch on a beach, which witch is which if each beach has a switch which releases a bitch that makes each witch get rich and cause a breach in the switch that caused the witch to leave the beach, and does that explain why you don't drink salted cola with herring juice for second breakfast?

Potatoes rule the world and winnie the pooh serves in the army of the little boy that looked for a tree in a forest and couldnt find it.

Sanity is not what you look for - when a talking smile of a cat hands you an umbrella cause it rains underwater in the middle of a desert - then youre not crazy. Really. Just pull the tail of the other cat.

Re:QUICK! Say something completely RANDOM!

Quantum foam is a simple field where each fleeting Plank-scale virtual particle has a direction vector and an amplitude of energy.

(The direction vectors are asymmetries of orientations of action in the fleeting manifestations of zero point virtual particles - in, out, no direction, or any particular specific vector of direction in three dimensions. See diagram below. These direction vectors can be visualized as self-powered "rollers" that come and go continuously, moving energy fluctuations along as they do so.)

The virtual particles manifest varying values (0, +, or -) of amplitudes of energy.

There are two dynamics here:

" Each fluctuation attempts to align with the overall direction vector of its direct neighbours.

" Each fluctuation attempts to neutralize the overall energy amplitude of its direct neighbours.

Source of Mass and nature of Gravity:

Individual fluctuation Direction vectors can focus, locally, locally, towards a common centre in Direction Alignments, point away, locally, from a common centre in Anti-Alignments, or have "random" direction vectors in "vacuum" regions.

The effect of Mass is created from stable or semi stable Direction Alignments, individually or in larger groupings.

Gravity is an outcome of focused direction alignments directing energy fluctuations and other smaller focus alignments into the centre of focus-alignments - at an accelerating rate because there are more and more focus-aligned "rollers" the further into a focus alignment they go.

The "curvature" of space-time is an outcome of differing regions of alignment, random and anti-alignment. A "particle" moves through this field in a path that is curved by the "in-out", or random nature these various regions.

Light and Time:

As fluctuations attempt to neutralize the energy of their neighbours, the direction vectors move excess neutralizing energy values, or borrow deficit energy values around the field, passing them on, neighbour to neighbour.

The overall propagation of these "passed-on/borrowed" amplitudes through the field is light. Its "speed" is an average of the propagations across particular configurations of direction alignments in the field. This creates the dimension of time. Light = Time.

(Is matter, space-time without the time dimension? See discussion about black holes below.)

Quantum entanglement:

The continual ongoing chaotic action of every individual fleeting fluctuation attempting to align with the direction vectors of its neighbours and neutralize the amplitudes of its neighbours, is quantum entanglement. It is impossibly chaotic, and interlinks the whole field almost instantaneously. (This could be pictured as an immensely chaotic field of "live, demented cogs" entrained in negative feedback loops, creating emergent phenomena.)

(Also, if the universe began in a singularity of any kind, all quantum states would have been superimposed in the beginning - that is, all were, and still are, entangled, every state with every other state. The universe is essentially a single quantum particle, spread out into four dimensions)

Lumpiness of space:

Direction alignments "direct/pull" Amplitude propagations into their foci, and anti-alignments "direct/push" Amplitude propagations away from their anti-foci. This "pushing" away of matter towards alignment foci, adds to the effect of gravity at alignment foci. Anti-alignments manifest in a space-time distribution essentially opposite to that of mass/Alignments. This gives an extra mechanism for the lumpiness and the "film and void" fractal structure of the universe.

Summary:

Virtual particle's Amplitudes attempt to zero-sum the energy of their immediate neighbours.

Virtual particle's Direction vectors attempt to align with the summed-over vectors of their immediate neighbours.

There we go, that sums up what I'm thinking right now :)
