
Because You'll Love Me...

Posted by sabla - 2007/01/14 12:04

To begin, my problem. I live in Wyoming, the most unpopulated and uncultured places on earth. You can find your typical fag here, tho. The thing is, I'm lonely. I came out back in 8th grade and now I'm almost a Junior. I have had one boyfriend (who I am still in love with, sad to say) in that time span. Now, if I may say, I am attractive. I could get any girl at my school (but that isent saying much with the things you get here). The boys here that are out are unapealing to me. I want to atract a bou for me but I'm not sure how to put it out there that I want one. My friends have been asking me why I haven't been dating. I'm sick of wemon. I'm just asking, how can I solve this?

(Well i may be young and i may be a girl but that's not the matter). i think you should keep your eyes open because there might be someone who isn't in your school that you haven't noticed yet. Also i think you should try and find out how your friends react around bi and gay people, if you think they're ok then try and tell them or your best mate about your sexuality.

I don't know if my post will help but i hope it does.

You have no reason at all to complain if, as you say, there are gay guys available. I think you are just looking for something to complain about, a pathological desire for attention that has manifested as this pathetic, whingey thread. There are gay guys available, but of course if you got with one of them, you'd have nothing to complain about, would you? What on earth would you do then?

Hmmm a child who wants an Action man....well wanting an action man in the first place is not a negative thing....A child usually does not have enough income to buy an action man...so he has to grumble in front of others to persuade them to buy it for him to actually obtain it (in a morally acceptable way).....LOL but anyway....

Sabla is cute, and you're not unattractive Muid.....and no one is pathetic....only actions might be such as bragging or criticising others for posting in a forum which encourages people to post so that others might give any advice or feedback on what was posted..... (I'm saying this without saying that such was actually done in this forum post by any particular members)

I wish I could help you Sabla...I know how it all feels...was in quite similar situations...and there isn't much to do...other than hang in there and keep looking...am sure you'll find a nice guy who is what you're looking for...sometimes we just need to wait and give time to time....in the mean time I suggest you keep your friends close, cause they will give you all the support you need when you are lonely....wish you loads of luck :) hugsss

Who ever wants to reply criticising what I said must be either offended about telling him that he is cute or saying that he isn't unattractive - which was the only direct comment I passed...or knows another way how a child can get an action man - something i do not exclude hahaha

Only having one BF is nothing to complain about (in my opinion) Not saying that I am in a worse situation or anything, I'm happy with the way my life has gone so far, other than a few unrelated problems.

I'm sure others would find him attractive, not really my type though.. I like the rugged look myself, probably why I don't really see myself as attractive despite all of the compliments and whatnot I have gotten.. Would rather most of them kept their mouths shut though >.<

If you aren't happy with the town you are in, then move away when you can. That is all you can do. I did it once, and found a place that I am more than happy in :)

Hope some of this helps you dude.

To the OP.. You ain't what I would be lookin fer in a man if I was lookin, but I can see that some of them girls out there would like ya for yer looks. And I'm sure there is some guys who feel the same. Good luck on findin the right man for ya.

To "The Muid"... Not sure who ya are.. Kinda been outta the loop for a bit. But, his post, while not really braggin (other than the "could get any girl" part) it ain't exactly whinin' either. Now, yer post after his, that was kinda whinin a bit, and made ya sound jealous more'n anythin. I don' think that was what ya wanted, but that is what ya got.

For the record. The count is one all for me.. One boyfriend (ex-boyfriend of course.. total asshole btw..) and my girl (who I plan to spend the rest of my life with if I can..)

You have a very narrow view of things babe.

I admit that I have had a few lovers in the past. But, while I was with them I was entirely faithful.. And now, I am married (partnered, unionized by the state... whatever the hell you want to call it.) So obviously not all of us are like that.

Sex is not important to me. Doesn't mean it isn't fun. But I could easily live without it. I actually prefer sitting and cuddling over a night of freaky passionate sex. Kinda throws off your "All gay people are this way!!!" rant.

Just because you feel the need to propagate the stereotype laid out by hollywood and religion.. Doesn't mean everyone feels that way.

Wow, 21 and married? (well, unionised or whatever bollocks term you wanna call it). I think its great you found a person you love that you want to spend the rest of eternity with. But, lets be honest, most of us will never find that person. Oh sure, we may fall in love many many times, but in the end, we'll never settle down. Its a simple fact of our biology - men are programmed to have sex with as many partners as possible. When a guy is with a woman, he stays with her to raise the child. But with gay guys its different.

Oh, and where did I say EVERY gay guy is like that? For every majority there is a minority.

Just because you feel the need to propogate the stereotype laid out by hollywood and religion.. Doesn't mean everyone feels that way.
Stereotypes are such for a reason.

A lot of people think it is the same way for us girls, because there are a few, and those are the ones you hear about.

I'm married.. not legally, but whatever, I don't give a shit about the law. My wife, (life partner, special friend, whatever..) was pregnant before we hooked up, but I am staying with her not because of the kids, but because I love her. So yea, kinda throws off your "Sex is what gay life is all about!" theory.

My point is, it's really off-topic and it doesn't help anything/anyone --- namely the creator of this thread.

If you wanted to rant and rave, I don't see why you wouldn't make some "ranting and raving" thread of sorts somewhere. Wouldn't you thus receive the sort of conversation that you seek? Unless all you're really here for is to piss people off or make yourself feel clever when you prove to yourself that your arguments and beliefs are eversomuchmoreintelligent, in which case I have nothing but pity for you.

Well, it might help if you ddn't refer to them as fags.. Generally speaking, no one likes being called that.

Women aren't all bad. But I think I get what you mean. You want a man. Nothing wrong there.

What you need to do, is figure out what it is about your ex that still gets you going, and then figure out why, and if you can find it in someone else.

As for how... Just make yourself seem available.. maybe go to a gay bar if you know where one is.. If you can't go in yet due to age, just hang around outside. People will get the message.

Jesus, Mary and Joseph. There is a reason you've never had a boyfriend. You can't live like Brian from QAF, its not reality. Stop being an ass. The boy wrote on a forum FOR ADVICE to recieve advice, not to hear you complain about how your life sucks more than his. Give it a rest, nobody finds your egotistical, jealousy-filled rants cute.

You ARE the problem, you are the "pathetic loser". You have shown everyone your extreme insecurities, your inconfidence. Puff out your chest as much as you like, it doesn't make you more attractive. The easiest and most effective way to make friends and eventually catch a boyfriend is to be NICE, sweet, caring. Nobody likes an asshole...they only like to fuck them.

So in the end, muster up some courage and deal with your issues without attacking. Your defensive actions are very telling. You aren't fooling anyone.
