

---

Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by moodymoongirl - 2006/07/19 18:05

---

I've searched this forum up and down, and I did not find any posts devoted to vegetarians. So here goes. If you're vegetarian--be it lacto ovo, vegan, or something in between, leave a comment here & let your voice be heard! ;)

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Dex - 2006/07/19 22:00

---

omg r u serious??:huh: i cant go wit owt my meats hehe

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Maxyoung6252 - 2006/07/19 22:47

---

Im a vegetable & queer i fort queer people were meant 2 be more sensitive - i am; its sooooooo tight on da poor little animal to be killed, only 4 it 2 be gobbled up by u!!!

I dont care bout no special forum, i just aint tuchin da icky stuff!!!

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Gumdropster - 2006/07/19 23:01

---

I'm not a vegetarian, because I can't survive without some kind of meat.:(

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by eversweet - 2006/07/20 14:14

---

Vegan here...

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by moodymoongirl - 2006/07/20 17:51

---

You're vegan too? :) I was vegan for a long time, but my folks thought I wasn't getting enough nutrition, so they made me switch back to lacto-ovo :angry:. They're just paranoid because they eat meat and all of this is new to them, I guess. Once I'm outta the house, though, I'm going right back to being vegan. B)

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by twist42 - 2006/07/22 02:48

---

whoop whoop! veg head in de hizzouse!

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by theoneandonly - 2006/07/22 15:20

---

---

Well, I'm kind of unusual. I am allergic to red meat, so therefore I can't eat it. I'm also very allergic to all dairy products, so cheese, milk, and all that jazz it out for me. So... I'm not sure what that makes me, but I don't eat meat or dairy:p

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by moodymoongirl - 2006/07/22 17:31

---

If you still eat eggs, then you can say you're an ovo vegetarian. If you don't eat eggs either, then you can pretty much consider yourself vegan--at least as far as your diet is concerned.

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Dex - 2006/07/23 21:50

---

is there a reason why you don't eat meat?? @ moodymoongirl

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Matt87 - 2006/07/24 16:38

---

I've pretty much cut out meat for health reasons. It's a killer when you are trying to lose weight. I'm not exactly a pure vegetarian though... I'd die if I couldn't have my lasagne or pizza at least once in a while. :p

--

Greetz,
~ Matt

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by moodymoongirl - 2006/07/25 00:07

---

ACK! Sorry 4 the double post up there! @ Dex: I don't eat meat for several reasons. #1: It's healthier, & I never really liked meat to begin with. #2: I love animals & the environment, and by being veggie, I'm showing that I care about nature. #3: Interestingly enough, some of the greatest minds were/are vegetarian (like Albert Einstein, Leonardo DaVinci, & my favorite composer Philip Glass). #4: I love to be different!
Hope this answers your question Dex,
--Moody

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Flonne - 2006/08/18 05:38

---

I use to be a a very strict vegetarian, unfortunately my meat enthusiast dad was out to get me back to eating animals. Somewhere along the line my parents refused to buy me the food i required to keep my protein and iron levels up. I got sick so I had to start eating animals again. I only eat poultry and fish though, I hate red meat.

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by lostdresden - 2006/08/18 06:03

---

Hello! I'm just a general vegetarian; I eat dairy and all that jazz, although I avoid cheese with rennet in it, anything containing gelatin, and dairy products where the animals in question have not been raised free-range and humanely. Yay.

---

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by SuperMario - 2007/03/03 06:53

---

General vegetarian here...Those poor animals...However, I'm kind of semi-vegetarian, because I eat fish. But I hate meat...

However, I was suffering under an eating disorder for a while, and my anorexia therapist said to restrict a food group while developing is very unhealthy, especially for notoriously underweight teenagers (which, apparently, I fell into this seamlessly transparent category). So I had meat shoved down my throat for, like, over a year, before I fully recovered. It was quite painful and tragic.

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Dave06 - 2007/03/25 03:12

---

i am a veggie! well i eat chicken but other than that no meat!

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Ceej - 2007/03/25 10:46

---

I'm vegan! I've been vegan for a few months now...I've found vegan food is generally better than meat, plus dairy is just disgusting. I love animals, so switching to vegan is like, the best choice I've ever made.

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Kanae - 2007/03/25 11:42

---

moodymoongirl wrote:

ACK! Sorry 4 the double post up there! @ Dex: I don't eat meat for several reasons. #1: It's healthier, & I never really liked meat to begin with. #2: I love animals & the environment, and by being veggie, I'm showing that I care about nature. #3: Interestingly enough, some of the greatest minds were/are vegetarian (like Albert Einstein, Leonardo DaVinci, & my favorite composer Philip Glass). #4: I love to be different!

Hope this answers your question Dex,

--Moody

And Ghandi, Buddha, and Hitler.

I'm not a vegetarian, however I do agree with the animal rights sentiment. Hurrah humane treatment, all that.

My brother doesn't like vegetarianism, but he really likes veganism because he's against dairy all the way. He can only have milk in cereal, or he won't touch it. Not even cheese or butter. Especially not butter. The thing he doesn't like, is that it's taken from another species: only two things live off another species's milk, and that's us and some really horrid bacteria.

Sorry for tripping into the topic without any proper reason to be here, but the Godwin joke was too good to miss. Carry on.

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Sonny - 2007/03/25 19:29

---

---

I'm not a vegetarian myself, but I support you guys! I volunteered at Vegfest, a convention for vegetarians. It was a bunch of booths with different samples of vegetarian foods so veggies can find out about the new and delicious foods out there. I helped to pour tiny cups of tea!

And there was this cute guy who came by a lot and tried like all the five flavors. And so at one point, I was like "You can't be that interested in tea."

And he goes "You're right."

And I thought to myself, "Crap! I don't know what to say now!"

And so nothing happened between us. Anyways, he was cute. Vegetarians are cool people and I don't know why people make fun of them.

---

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by Trulymauri - 2007/03/25 21:04

I;m nearly vegan, every once in a while I have a glass of milk, or something that has eggs in it

---

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by austin_09 - 2007/03/26 04:41

As of February 7th of 06 I have been a vegetarian. I think eating meat is sick and disgusting. The way they treat the animals before they get to the slaughterhouse is horrific. Then the way they kill them is terrible. A great movie to watch about this is called "Meet Your Meat" on GoVeg.com. Eating meat is about the worst thing you can do to the environment. Also, I figure, why do we NEED to eat meat anymore? People say we are meant to eat meat. Yes, we did need to eat meat way back when to survive. But not anymore. We are above that now and can find our protein else where without haveing to take the life of an animal.

I can not comit to being vegan yet. :( It's just too hard when you live with your family. I would probably starve to death if I didn't have my dairy or egg. (I do feel terrible about both of these. The chickens used to produce eggs DO eventually make it to the slaughter house and eating dairy supports the veel business.) But, once I move out, my dairy and egg days are over!

---

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by modelbehavior - 2007/03/26 04:58

I am a lacto ovo vegetarian. I will not eat meat or fat from meat. I am fine with anything dairy or unfertilized eggs, but if you have to kill the animal to get it, I won't eat it. Period. It is not because I am some big animal activist, I am not. I just don't like the idea of eating something that used to be running around :sick:

---

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by austin_09 - 2007/03/26 09:03

Eating dairy supports the veel business. They farmers atificially ensiminate the cows so that they will give birth and produce milk. They take the calves from their mothers at a very young age and keep them in small pens. They then slaughter the calves for veel. I guess it's supposed to be really tender meat or something like that. Farmers repeat this to keep the cow producing milk. Then once the cow gets too sick or old they take them to the slaughter house.

Eating eggs supports the slaughter of chickens. The hens are kept in tiny cages and many breat wings and legs from being cramped so tight. Once the chicken is too injured or sick to be worth anything anymore the famers hall them off to a slaughter house where they'll legs are tied to a conveyor belt type deal and hung up side down. Then the chickens neck is run through a machine that chops of their heds.. It's really not that pretty..

---

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by borto - 2007/03/26 09:46

---

Humans are omnivores -- in the wild, we ate a varied diet made up of a combination of both. Yes, It's possible to survive on a diet of only vegetables, but it must be carefully managed to prevent health problems - same with diets high in meat.

Having said that...

Your salad is nothing compared to my 10oz medium rare bacon-wrapped tenderloin! :lol:

Great, now I'm hungry :dry:

Post edited by: borto, at: 2007/03/26 09:48

=====

Re:Where R The Vegetarians?

Posted by STARCHRIS - 2007/04/01 05:47

---

Lol im veggie been one for like 16 years, bit crazy I no but hey.

Dont you love the irony that a gay guy doesn't like meat if its dead lol

=====